

Various equipment items

Cable binders	Ideal to bind both power cables and extremities.	1 $ 0,1 pounds
Hand cuffs	It's unclear whether these hand cuffs began their life in a police precinct or a lingerie boutique.	s.a. 7 $ 0,3 pounds
Detergent	Meant to be used in washing machines, but can also be used for hand washing. Another product of which production resumed after the War.	s.a. 10 $ 2 pounds
Fire extinguisher	A beautiful device to fight all kinds of fire. There are very cheap extinguishers that just require water, or very expensive ones, that can only be manufactured in limited numbers after the war, that spray a fire stifling foam.	s.a. 70 $ (Water) s.a. 180 $ (foam) s.a. 3 pounds (XS) up to 20 pounds
Needle and thread	For sewing. Useful for the most diverse works on textiles and available in various qualities.	s.a. 3 $ 0,1 pounds
String	A long string, be it made of pre War Sheep wool, pre War cotton, post War cotton, leather, nylon or whatever other material that lends itself to the production of strings. Depending on the material, the intended use differs. For example nylon strings are still used by fishermen.	s.a. 3 $ s.a. 0,1 pounds/ Meter fishhook	A specially made hook to bait fishes, with a lug to attach a string to it. Prices vary depending on origin, size and production material. Warning: Clean mutated fish before eating. It's best to rinse them with Nuka-Cola or a thinned Rad-Away solution, or to bathe the filets directly in one.	s.a. 7 $ 0,1 pounds
Net	A big net, that's meant more for professional fishermen than hobbyists with fishing rod. Warning: Clean mutated fish before eating. It's best to rinse them with Nuka-Cola or a thinned Rad-Away solution, or to bathe the filets directly in one.	s.a. 10 $ each m ² 0,5 pounds each m ²
Spoon net	A relatively small net on a relatively long staff to catch fish. Warning: Clean mutated fish before eating. It's best to rinse them with Nuka-Cola or a thinned Rad-Away solution, or to bathe the filets directly in one.	s.a. 25 $ s.a. 1 pound
Floater	A plastic or rubber piece, that makes the fishhook drift close to the water surface. Useful for fishing. Warning: Clean mutated fish before eating. It's best to rinse them with Nuka-Cola or a thinned Rad-Away solution, or to bathe the filets directly in one.	s.a. 30 $ 0,5 pounds

Thin chain	A half up to a full centimeter diameter and made of metal. For the most diverse intended uses and made from the most diverse metals and alloys, available in many colors and for example for bricolage, decoration or building hunting traps and machines.	12$/ Meter 0,4 pounds/ Meter
(very) thick chain	One centimeter to three centimeters in diameter, made of metal. Like the 'thin chain' made of all possible metals or alloys, both before and after the War and useful for a lot of things.	20 $/ Meter 1 pounds/ Meter
Hawser	A heavy hawser, thicker and more stable than a rope, but difficult to transport. Just reeling it in, is nothing for the weak, but it can keep an angry brahmin bull under control and could serve a big, heavy Super Mutant as a rope.	55 $ /Meter 4 pounds/ Meter
Gas (bottle/15 Liter)	A very big container for flammable gas. Pre War gas is incredibly expensive, but one can also use post War gas, made from brahmin crap. The question is just, who wants to cook his meals with former shit?	Pre: 120 $ Post: 60 $ 30 pounds
Wood fuel	A big fagot of wood, enough to let a medium sized bon fire burn for a night. Wood can't be found everywhere, besides, it's not smart to drop a tree just anywhere. Luckily, one can buy wood fuel (or other flammable materials, like pre War paper) in many places.	s.a. 4 $/ for 20 pounds 20 pounds
Charcoal (briquet)	Wood that has been refined into coal, ideal for making a fire in the Wastes. Is much easier to transport than wood fuel or a whole gas grill with gas bottles.	s.a. 12 $ jeeach 7 pounds
Massage oil/ Baby oil	If you have to ask what this can be used for, you probably don't want to know. Produced after the war, but not nearly in the same quality and not as allergy agreeable.	s.a. 20 $ 1 pound
Duct tape	Duct tape holds the world together. Such a roll of tape keeps nearly forever and can be used for incredibly many applications. Depending on the situation, duct tape can for example ease repairs.	s.a. 15 $ 1 pound
Barrier tape	Barrier tape is available in many funny colors and with many funny inscriptions, for example: "POLICE – CRIME SCENE – DO NOT ENTER!"	s.a. 10 $ 1 pound
